TO THE RIGHT HONOURABLE THE LORDS OF THE COMMITTEE OF HIS MAJESTY'S
MOST HONOURABLE PRIVY COUNCIL FOR TRADE, &c.

MY LORDS,

IN laying before your Lordships Part III. of the Tables of the Revenue, Population, Commerce, &c., of the United Kingdom, with the compilation of which I have been charged, it appears necessary to explain why it has been found necessary, in the present instance, to depart from the plan originally proposed, viz., to prepare, in each year, a collection embracing the occurrences of the year that will have just passed.

The interest excited by the appearance of our first collection of Tables, comprising the occurrences of twelve years, from 1820 to 1831, inclusive, caused so great a demand to be made for copies on the part of Members of the two Houses of Parliament, as well as by various public functionaries, that the liberal number which was printed has for some time been altogether exhausted, and the demand continuing urgent, it became necessary to reprint the volume. Under these circumstances it was thought most advisable by your Lordships to embody, with the annual compilation for 1833, the matter contained in the parts previously printed; and, accordingly, the volume, which I have now the honour to lay before you, will be found to comprise the whole of the Tables contained in the two previous collections, continued and brought down to the end of 1833. This arrangement will, it is hoped, be found to render the work more convenient for reference than it would have been had the Tables been divided into three separate volumes, embracing different periods of time. But for the extent to which the collection has thus been necessarily carried, it would have been ready for presentation a considerable time before the prorogation of Parliament, and in future, when the annual volume will again be principally confined to a record of the occurrences of the preceding year, it will be completed so as to be made available by Members during the Session. Within the first week after the meeting of Parliament in the present year, a Statement was presented exhibiting an Abstract of the Custom House Accounts of Imports, Exports, Consumption and Shipping, to the 5th of January, 1834, and a similar compilation will always be ready for presentation in future years at an equally early period; but it will not be possible to procure detailed and accurate Statements in the form wherein they are here presented, so soon after the close of the year, nor, indeed, before the annual books of the different departments are made up and balanced.

It has been always intended that advantage should be taken of the occasion of our annual compilations, to embody with them authentic information of a Statistical nature which might be practically useful, in addition to the record of the year's occurrences. Accordingly it will be found that the present occasion has been used for the introduction of a considerable amount of new matter, which has been gathered together since the last volume was printed, and which appears calculated to be either interesting or useful in itself, or to throw additional light upon some of the questions involved in the former volumes.

Perhaps the most important statements now, for the first time introduced into our compilation, are those which exhibit the general view of our commercial intercourse with every part of the world, particularizing the Imports from and Exports to each Foreign Country, as well as the Trade between the United Kingdom and its Colonies and Dependencies. The information furnished by these statements cannot fail to be importantly useful to the Legislature in the consideration of all Commercial questions; and it is therefore highly satisfactory that, through the exertions made by Mr. Irving, the Inspector-General of Imports and Exports, these statements have now been brought down to a period one year nearer to the time of their appearance than on any former occasion. The arrangements whereby this end has been accomplished, will enable that gentleman to be equally forward with similar statements in future years.

Another kind of information, now first introduced, is that which relates to the Statistics of Foreign Countries. The particulars of this kind, to be found in the present volume, are, for the most part, compiled from answers returned by his Majesty's Consuls abroad to a series of questions prepared and sent to them by your Lordships' directions, and which related principally to matters of Trade, as being most important to be known in this kingdom, as well as being that kind of information which Consuls are best fitted and able to obtain.

The Trade of our numerous Colonies with this Kingdom, with Foreign Countries, and with one another, is a subject of such vast importance, that, as your Lordships are aware, steps were long since taken to procure authentic statements with regard to it. Correct Returns have now been received from all the Colonies, for the year 1832, by the Inspector-General of Imports and Exports, and have been arranged in a tabular form. These will be immediately placed in the hands of the printer, together with such other authentic statements, of a Statistical nature, connected with each Colony, as is in possession of Government, and the volume containing them will be very shortly ready for presentation. It was hoped that accounts of the Annual Income and Expenditure would have been transmitted from each Colony, in such a form as to have been easily made available for insertion in our compilation; but notwithstanding the endeavours used by the Treasury Department to that end, it appears that the Returns for 1832 have not been made with that degree of clearness and uniformity which fits them for this purpose. It is expected that the further explanations and directions, which have since been forwarded to the officers in the Colonies, will have the effect of remedying this defect, and that the accounts for 1833 will come forward in a more desirable shape, so as to be embodied in the next annual volume, compiled in this office for the use of Parliament.

The importance that attaches to every circumstance connected with the growth and progress of Crime in the community, rendered it in your Lordships' opinion most desirable to embody, in the volume now laid before you, all the information of an official nature which is procurable on the subject. It is greatly to be regretted that the amount of this information should hitherto have been so scanty, and at the same time so defective in its nature, as to throw but little effectual light upon this vitally important subject. By means of the Returns herein contained, we are indeed made acquainted with the total number and the nature of accusations made at the bar of criminal justice in each year, and with their results in England, Scotland, and Ireland, respectively; but, with the exception of London and Middlesex, as to which separate Returns are given, we are not enabled to trace and compare the progress of crime in different sub-divisions of the kingdom, nor have we any information whatever with regard to the ages of delinquents, nor as to the proportion of the sexes among them in those sub-divisions.

To remedy these deficiencies as far as possible, your Lordships, in February last, directed that a letter should be addressed to the Secretary of State for the Home Department, requesting that steps might be taken for supplying information upon this important subject, and forms of Returns were, at the same time, transmitted, by adhering to which the requisite knowledge would be afforded. It will be satisfactory to know, that in the Criminal Returns hereafter to be presented to Parliament, these points of information, so desirable both morally and politically, will be given, together with some further minor particulars which it is not necessary to explain at present. I cannot, however, refrain on this occasion from venturing to repeat to your Lordships my conviction of the desirableness of proceeding still further than has yet been done, in the improvement of our Criminal Returns. It should not be difficult to ascertain and to classify prisoners with reference to the amount of education, if any, that has been bestowed upon them—specifying whether they are able or not to read—whether they can read and write—or whether they have received a degree of instruction superior to mere reading and writing. If these particulars were given, in connexion with the detail of the offences charged, the light thus thrown upon the subject of moral Legislation could hardly fail to be highly beneficial to the country.

It would be scarcely less useful, although it might perhaps be attended with some little difficulty at first, to ascertain the professions of criminals; not, indeed, with much minuteness, but dividing the population into a few well defined classes. By this means the comparative moral tendencies of different pursuits might be ascertained, and correctives might be applied with greater hope of reaching the evil, than at present attends the best considered efforts of the Legislature. Another point which it seems desirable to attain, is the distinguishing of those among the accused who have previously been convicted of crimes, registering the number of convictions which they have undergone, and the nature of their previous crimes and punishments, by which means we should be enabled to form some judgment with regard to the efficacy of the restraints and punishments at present enforced. It is well known that many persons obtain their living entirely by the pursuit of criminal courses, and it is therefore probable, that, as regards the less serious class of delinquencies especially, the number of criminals may, without such an explanation as has been here suggested, be incorrectly given in the Tables, although the amount of crime may be truly stated.

In the Criminal Returns annually compiled in France, all the information here alluded to is given with great minuteness of detail; and although it may be true that the different regulations of the police in that kingdom afford greater facilities to this end than are possessed in this country, it is still probable that a great deal may be done here towards the perfecting of Returns which may be made to exercise so great and beneficial an influence upon our moral condition as a people.

Among other advantages contemplated by your Lordships, in causing periodical compilations of this nature to be made, it was hoped that many Returns which had usually been called for by Members of the House of Commons would no longer be demanded, and that considerable expense and labour would, by that means, be saved in the different departments. This advantage has been, in a great measure, realized, fewer Returns intended to elucidate particular subjects having been called for during the present than in preceding Sessions, while it cannot have been felt otherwise than as a great assistance generally to Members of both Houses of Parliament, thus to possess systematic and comparative statements presenting a full view of each subject, instead of those desultory and partial Returns, which, being frequently required to answer some purpose of the moment, might consequently be so framed as to mislead rather than inform, by presenting partial or incomplete views of matters as to which the Houses were called upon to legislate.

I have the honour to be,

My Lords,

Your Lordships' most obedient and very humble Servant,

G. R. PORTER.

a The Duties on the Importation of Cocoa Nuts and Coffee, Pepper, Foreign Spirits, Tobacco, and Wine, were transferred in 1825 to the management of the Commissioners of Customs, under the provisions of the Acts 4 George IV. cap. 69 and 72, sec. 34 and 36. According to the foregoing account, these Duties amounted in the preceding year to 7,737,444

b The Beer and Cyder Duties ceased October 10, 1830. These Duties, in 1825, amounted to 3,080,468

c The Leather Duty reduced one-half from July 5, 1822, and wholly repealed from July 5, 1830. This Duty in the year 1821 produced 600,282

d The Malt Duty reduced from 3s. 6d. to 2s. 6d. per Bushel from February 25, 1822. This reduction, calculated upon the quantities charged within the period comprised in this abstract, is equal to, per Annum 1,619,769

e The Duty on Printed Goods repealed from March 1, 1831. The Drawbacks paid in 1831 exceeded in amount the Duty collected. The Duty in 1830 was 570,330

f The Salt Duty reduced from 15s. to 2s. per Bushel from January 5, 1823, and wholly repealed from January 5, 1825. The Duty in 1822 was 1,490,007

g The reduction in the rates of Duty on British Spirits have been—1823, from 6s. 2d. in Scotland and 6s. 7d. in Ireland, to 2s. 4d. per Imperial Gallon—1826, from 10s. 6d. to 7s. per Gallon. Calculating upon the quantities consumed immediately before those periods, the reductions should have amounted to £1,673,619. An additional Duty of 6d. per Gallon was imposed throughout the United Kingdom, from 15th March, 1830. This, calculated upon the increased consumption encouraged by the before-mentioned reductions, should produce £567,256. The present remission may therefore be estimated at 1,106,363

h The Duty on Candles ceased from 1st January, 1832. The Act by which this Duty was repealed was passed in September, 1831, and materially influenced the amount of Duty paid during that year. For the purpose of this Computation, the year 1830 should consequently be taken, and then the Candle Duty amounted to 482,413

i The Duty on Tiles was repealed from the 20th May, 1833. Its produce in the preceding year was £38,010, at which rate the remission would amount, in 1833, to 23,400

k The Duty on Soap was diminished one half from the 31st May, 1833. The proportionate remission calculated upon the receipt of 1832, would therefore be 345,980

Total . . . . . £17,056,456

The apparent difference between the sum of the individual amounts in this Account and the total produce of each year's collection, arises from the omission of all fractional parts of a pound.

The above statement is taken, as regards the years 1820 to 1823 inclusive, from the Fourteenth Report of the Commissioners of Revenue Inquiry. For subsequent years, recourse has been had to the Finance Accounts annually laid before Parliament.

* This falling off in the number of ships is only nominal. The numbers returned in previous years were made up of all vessels admitted to registration, and which were assumed to exist until evidence to the contrary was produced. The New Registry Act (6 Geo. IV. cap. 110.) obliged the Owners of all vessels to register them anew, and the return of the year 1827, being founded on the new registrations, must necessarily be correct. It may be deserving of remark, that while the amount of Tonnage, belonging to the British Empire, has for many years continued nearly stationary, the Foreign and Colonial branches of our trade have been progressively increasing. There is no reason to suppose that other parts of the Empire have experienced any falling off in the amount of their commercial operations, and this fact may therefore be taken to exhibit the increasing degree of celerity with which this branch of national industry is now conducted.

OBSERVATIONS.

The above proportion is that between the British Shipping and the aggregate Burthen of Vessels, considering that aggregate as unity.

The aggregate Burthen of 1831 was stated in the former Returns at 1,902,038, the Norwegian Tonnage having been given up in Lasts in lieu of Tons. Correcting this mistake, the aggregate Tonnage is increased to 1,959,722, as above stated.
